Islands

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—All on board the U. S. Navy tug "Sciota" are reported safe, the Navy Department reported today. The tug reported herself in trouble last night 200 miles off the Bahamas in the hurricane which swept over Cuba and other towns.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—(INS)—The United States Navy ocean-going tug Sciota reported it was sinking 200 miles off the Bahamas Islands, according to a wireless received today by the Radio Marine Corporation.

How many men were aboard, and whether any rescue ship was speeding to aid the distressed craft was not disclosed in the meagre messages or was the cause of the trouble indicated. Panama was the base to which the Sciota was assigned.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(INS)—The U. S. submarine Dolphin and two destroyers are speeding to the assistance of the U. S. Navy tug Sciota, reported sinking 200 miles off the Bahamas, the Navy Department reported today. All three rescue vessels were in the vicinity of the sinking tug, when her SOS was received here.

The Sciota is reported to have a crew of 20 men aboard.

HAVANA, Nov. 11.—(INS)—The number of known dead in the hurricane and tidal wave which struck Cuba two days ago neared 500 today, while unofficial estimates placed the ghastly toll at several hundred more. The disaster appeared to have wreaked its worst fury on the southern coastal town of Santa Cruz del Sur, which was completely wiped out by a great wall of water, 25 feet high, swept inland over marshes and low sugar plantations.

The ministry of Communications officially announced 300 dead in this little sugar and fishing town, with 400 missing. Officials said the exact number of fatalities never would be known since scores, perhaps hundreds, were swept out to sea and drowned as the wave receded.

Only four houses were left standing in the town, and some of the survivors arriving in Camaguey, wounded and half crazed from terror, declared the entire population of about 3,000 was wiped out.

These estimates were believed exaggerated, however, and officials awaited news from rescue workers before placing the toll there above 300 lives. Nearly 200 were known to have been killed in other places throughout Eastern Cuba, with the possibility the list might increase.

Many exaggerated reports were received in Havana as the great extent of damage gradually was unfolded. The government, announcing officially 17 were killed in Camaguey, denied reports the death toll there was in the several hundreds.

Many prominent officials were among the fatalities at Santa Cruz del Sur, two of them being the military supervisor and the judge of the court of instruction. The town's two doctors were killed, leaving no one to render professional medical assistance.

The town had been deserted as the hurricane neared the Cuban coast, but the great tidal wave rushed far inland, destroying all before it. Tugs were carried as far as five miles inland, and the hundreds of residents who thought themselves safe met death.

All the residents of the little fishing village of "Twelve League Keys," near Camaguey, were believed to have perished before the tidal wave. The population of this village is generally about 50.

Known dead in other localities were as follows: Senda, 7; Camajuan, 13; Central Violeta, 4; Florida, 2; Velasco, 6; Alto Songo, 1.

The extent of the Santa Cruz del Sur tragedy was revealed by Eloy Garcia Figueroa, a survivor who made his way to Jaitibonico, where he telephoned news to the outside world.

He said most of the deaths were by drowning from the tidal wave, few having been injured in the collapse of buildings or otherwise hurt.

PLANE VICTIMS IDENTIFIED

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 11.—The five persons who were killed last night in a plane crash at Kentville, Tennessee, took off from here early yesterday for Fort Lauderdale, Florida. The victims as identified by friends were: James P. Hirt, 40, an industrial engineer; Mrs. Inez Hirt, 38, his wife; Mrs. Elizabeth Hunter, and Mrs. Hunter's two children, Robert, 4, and Inez, 2. The party intended spending the winter in Florida.

PLAN DRIVE TO ENACT SOME DEMOCRAT PLEDGES

Apparently in Hope of Avoiding
Special Session
in Spring

REPEAL NOT FAVORED

(By William K. Hutchinson)

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(INS)—A drive to enact some of the Democratic platform pledges this winter was planned today by party leaders, apparently in hope of avoiding a special session of the new Congress next spring.

Despite their amazing majorities in the new House and Senate, Democratic chieftains appeared to favor action by the "lame duck" Congress on some of the most important legislative measures pledged in their party platform. They apparently fear the effect of launching the Roosevelt administration with even a friendly Congress on the President's hands.

This plan would require the balancing of the budget, submission of a repeal amendment on the prohibition issue, legalization of beer, extension of federal credits to farm mortgages and depositors in closed banks, probably authorization of Philippine independence and possibly enlargement of the federal public works program.

The most important issue—so far as Mr. Roosevelt's administration is concerned—will be to balance the budget. This can be accomplished at the December session by rigid economy in appropriations, and by increasing federal revenue through a tax on legalized beer. If this is done, President-elect Roosevelt can spend six months in the White House virtually free from the bugaboo of a Democratic treasury deficit.

The pledge of the Democrats to submit repeal of prohibition may meet with considerable delay. Neither the old nor new Congress favors outright repeal of the 18th Amendment. Any prolonged fight will kill the measure at the short session.

NUMBER OF GARMENTS EXHIBITED BY NEEDLEWORK GUILD IN STEWART MEMORIAL YEAR SURPASSES THAT OF LAST YEAR; TOTAL DISPLAYED IS 5370

Mrs. Horace T. Greenwood, Founder of Merion Branch, Brings Message Filled With Enthusiasm — Junior
Branch Contributes 577 Garments

Bristol Branch of the Needlework Guild of America surpassed its excellent showing of last year, when at the annual exhibit yesterday was a tribute to the memory of Mrs. John Wood Stewart, founder and organizer of the guild, 5,370 garments were displayed. A supreme effort was made to have an outstanding exhibit this Memorial Year, and the members and directors surpassed last year's total by 62 garments.

Thirteen names were on the honor roll, including the rejuvenated Junior Branch contributing 577 garments. The honor roll included: Mrs. Clifford L. Anderson, 426; Mrs. Frederick Krings, 300; Mrs. James Lefferts, 214, of which number 160 were made by Mrs. Lefferts; Mrs. Henry E. Ancker, 203; Mrs. Lawrence Machette, 154; Miss Ida Bruden, 140; Miss Katherine Keating, 116; Mrs. Griffith Williams, 108; Mrs. Lewis C. Spring, 107; Mrs. J. B. Johnson, 106; sewing department of the guild, 892; Junior Needlework Guild, 577; Morning Star Chapter of Eastern Star, 322.

Mrs. Henry E. Ancker, president of the guild, presided at the annual exhibit; and Miss Esther Lawrence, honorary president, was in attendance.

The speaker of the day was Mrs. Horace T. Greenwood, of Moorestown, N. J., founder and honorary president of the Merion, Pa., branch of the Guild. In her excellent message Mrs. Greenwood said "Words mean little; deeds mean much," and then she touched upon the sacrifices made by members of the guild, and of the loving work done upon the garments.

TWO CO. YOUTHS GIVEN SUSPENDED SENTENCES

Third One in Party, Older Than Other, is Sent to Prison

ROBBED ROAD STANDS

DOYLESTOWN, November 11.—Two Bucks county youths, who pleaded guilty before Judge Calvin S. Boyer to robbing a number of roadside stands of cigarettes, candy, hot dogs, ice cream and stole a revolver and some tires from a used automobile parked near a Doylestown garage, were released on probation and given a suspended sentence. A third defendant, older than the two boys, was sent to the county prison.

Roy Cooper, 16; Charles Fitchas, 17, of Point Pleasant; and Alva Randall, 23, Carversville, are the three who pleaded guilty. A fourth defendant, Joseph Kopeczynski, 15, of Point Pleasant, will be disposed of in Juvenile court.

The arrests were made after Doylestown State Police had conducted an investigation and had made the arrests. Trooper George M. Sauer, was the Commonwealth witness.

Randall, it was testified, owned the car in which the quartet traveled at night. He was sentenced to the Bucks County Prison for a term of not less than one month or more than three years. Cooper and Fitchas were placed on probation for four years.

After Attorney Webster Achey, for the defendants, had made a plea for leniency on the grounds that the boys simply lacked moral background and had not really had a chance to make good under some strict supervision, Judge Boyer said, in pronouncing sentence:

"Well boys, you are in a pretty mess. You all committed serious crimes. You, Cooper, could be sent to the penitentiary for 40 years; you, Fitchas, for 20 years; and you Randall, for 30 years, or I could send both Cooper and Fitchas to the reformatory until you became twenty-one. "Which would you prefer?" Judge Boyer asked Cooper and Fitchas.

"Neither," replied Fitchas as quick as a flash.
"Well, Randall, you should be ashamed of yourself," Judge Boyer continued. "A strapping, big fellow like you, leading these younger boys into a life of crime! The Court will suspend sentence in the case of Cooper and Fitchas, and give you a chance to make real men of yourselves, but we believe that you (Randall) require a taste of punishment."

BAKE SALE TOMORROW

Jefferson A. C. will hold a pie and cake sale at 349 Washington street tomorrow morning. The sale will begin at 10 o'clock. Proceeds will help to buy basketball uniforms for the club.

Birthdays of Women Are Observed at Supper

The birthdays of four members of Bible Class No. 4, Bristol M. E. Sunday School, taught by Miss Mary Lippincott, were celebrated last evening at a turkey supper. The menu: roast turkey, filling, mashed potatoes, peas, stewed tomatoes, cole slaw, celery, rolls, pumpkin pie, coffee.

The affair took place in the banquet hall of the church, and was served in a setting of russet toned chrysanthemums and other cut flowers. Favors were pink baskets filled with nuts.

The supper was followed by a business session. The attendants were the complimented guests, Mrs. Ella Smith, Mrs. Doron Green, Mrs. Adam Smith and Mrs. Augustus Praul; also the Misses Mary Lippincott, Harriet Randall, Mrs. Susan Young, Mrs. James Keel, Mrs. Edmund Roper, Mrs. Harry Stackhouse, Mrs. George Shire, Sr., Mrs. Nellie Arnold, Mrs. Mary Warden, Mrs. Irvin Scheffey, Mrs. Clarence Howell, and Mrs. Sara Bowman. The guests: Rev. Clarence Howell, Clarence, Jr., and Miss Jane Howell, and James Keel, Bristol; and Mrs. Mary Poole, Philadelphia.

The next meeting of the class members will take place in December at the home of Mrs. Nellie Arnold, Jefferson avenue.

CONGRATULATE INSUL

Athens, Greece, Nov. 11.—More than 50 cablegrams and radiograms from all parts of the world arrived here today congratulating Samuel Insul on his 73rd birthday. The white-haired utilities magnate, being formally detained pending extradition proceedings to the United States, was in good spirits but he lamented his present situation. The two Chicago officials en route here with extradition papers are due in Naples, Italy, tomorrow, and should arrive here Monday.

ARMISTICE DAY IS OBSERVED BY LEGION

Members Assemble On Lawn
of Bracken Post
Home

WHISTLES ARE BLOWN

Armistice Day was observed in Bristol today by the ringing of bells, blowing of whistles, cessation of work and the pausing of individuals in a five-minute tribute.

The members of Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion, assembled upon the lawn of the Legion Home, where appropriate services were held.

The signal for "cease firing" was given and then the Legion ritual was taken up. William Riley, acting chaplain, made the opening prayer after which the service was conducted by the commander, senior and junior vice-commanders and the sergeant-at-arms.

There was a closing prayer.
There was a liberal display of flags throughout the borough and whistles on factories and the fire whistle blew during the five minute period from 10:55 to 11 o'clock.

PLAN DINNER

The official board of Harriman M. E. Church, will give an "Old Colony Dinner" at the Church, December 10, at 5:30 p. m. The menu will consist of: Roast beef, tomato brown gravy, potatoes natural, rice, carrots, lettuce, celery, whole wheat bread and butter, sterilized drip coffee, and baked apple. There will be ice cream and cake on sale.

VISIT GERMAN CRUISER

Members of the senior class of Drexel Institute, School of Mechanical Engineering, of which Robert D. Brooks, 204 Jefferson avenue, is a member, made a tour of inspection, Wednesday, of the German cruiser, "Karlsruhe," which is anchored at Philadelphia.

Miss Elinor Finney, Maynes Lane, and a party of friends, of Cynwyd, spent Sunday as guests of Cadet-Lieutenant Robert Groves at Wenonah Military Academy, Wenonah, N. J. Upon their return to Philadelphia they were dinner guests of Lieutenant Groves' uncle in Chestnut Hill.

fail them!....

TODAY we pay homage to those men who fought and bled upon a glorious battle-field. They were men of indomitable will and unswerving purpose and we can well cherish their memory. But let us not forget the idealism for which those men fought — they fought not to win a war but to win everlasting peace.

We must not break faith with them! In remembering and commemorating their stirring deeds let us dedicate ourselves to their ideal and pray that our youth and the youth of other nations shall never again meet upon a battlefield.

FIVE KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Kentville, Tenn., Nov. 11.—A family of five was killed in an airplane crash near here last night. It was learned today. Papers found on the body of one victim identified him as James F. Hirt, of Fort Lauderdale, Florida, and the other victims were believed to be his wife, his daughter and his two grandchildren.

Four were killed instantly. A baby was found injured and was rushed here but died this morning.
The plane fell in a field near here between Carthage and Cainsboro, Tenn., about 8:30 last night. Farmers rushed to the spot and took the mangled bodies from the wreckage. They were brought here to a morgue. Authorities were blocked in their efforts to determine the cause of the crash because there were no survivors. They said Hirt apparently was piloting the craft.

ROOSEVELT'S SWEEP INCREASES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—The breadth and sweep of the Democratic victory widened today as belated returns ironed out congressional contests and sent Franklin D. Roosevelt's vote to still mounting millions. Scarcely in the history of the country has one party been given such complete and overwhelming responsibility for conduct of the government.

It appeared today the Democrats will have some 314 members in the House as against 111 for the Republicans. The Senate is proportionately the same. That is party responsibility with a vengeance. More complete responsibility could hardly be imagined.

SHERIFF KILLS BANDIT

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 11.—Trapped in a gambling house by "torture bandits" Rudolph G. "Cookie" Vejar, veteran deputy sheriff, shot and killed one bandit, wounded another and was himself probably fatally wounded in a spectacular gun battle today.

PLAN WAR DEBT ACTION

London, England, Nov. 11.—Indications of concerted action by European Powers with respect to the war debts due the United States were forthcoming today. It was officially admitted that Great Britain had informed France, Italy and Belgium of the dispatch of a note to Washington dealing with the war debt and particularly the installment due on December 15th. The British government is expected to await a reply from the United States before making public the text of the communication.

CARUSO UNDER BAIL FOR TRIAL BEFORE COURT

Preliminary Hearing is Held
Peace James Guy

BOND PUT AT $1,000

Alfred Caruso, 25, 832 Jefferson avenue, was held in $1,000 bail yesterday afternoon, on charges preferred by Charles Capella, 59, 424 Jefferson avenue, who alleges Caruso slashed his neck and stabbed him October 26th. The hearing was held before Justice of Peace James Guy in Municipal Building. Caruso was represented by J. Leslie Kilcoyne and Capella by Howard I. James.

The defendant, Caruso, will have to stand trial at criminal court and the case will probably be listed for the December term.

Nearly 100 young men and four or five women crowded into the court room to hear the case.

Capella was the first witness to take the stand and testified he met Caruso at Jefferson avenue and the old railroad, when Caruso said: "Are you looking for trouble?"

Capella stated he answered, "No."

Then according to Capella he was attacked by the defendant.
Dr. H. Doyle Webb described the wound saying there was a laceration about five inches long on the left side of Capella's neck and that it was about a quarter to a half inch deep. "It was made by a very sharp instrument and was not a jagged cut," said the witness. "It was clean cut."

Attorney James questioned the witness as to the seriousness of the wound.

His reply was "It was a very dangerous cut. I could see the jugular vein shining through the tissues. It required 11 sutures."

Questioned as to the character of the stab wound at the left temple the physician said it was about three-eighths of an inch wide.

George Saxton testified he witnessed the scuffle and saw Caruso pick up a knife about two yards from the scene and run away after the alleged stabbing and cutting.

UTILITY RATES IS SPEAKER'S SUBJECT AT ROTARY CLUB

Limited Legally To Fair
Return On The Investment

SLOW CAPITAL RETURN

No Definite Relation Between Commodity Prices and Electric Rates

"Because the public utility is limited legally at all times to a fair return on the investment, and is not free like other forms of private business enterprise to take advantage of boom price times," it has properly been held that a utility should not be plunged arbitrarily by public authority into periods of unprofitable operation.

This declaration was made to members of the Bristol Rotary Club yesterday afternoon by W. G. Sterrett, manager of the eastern division of the Philadelphia Electric Company, with headquarters at Jenkintown.

The speaker pointed out that the slow capital turnover of a public utility, averaging but once in each five and one-half years, enforced stability of operation and required that rates should take into account, among other factors, the average of commodity costs over long periods of time.

"There is no definite relation between commodity prices and electric rates," the speaker pointed out. "Investments by the company are made because of public need. Of necessity, these investments must be made and planned long in advance of actual public need."

"Rates naturally must permit of a fair return on capital in times of depression as well as prosperity, or else public needs cannot be supplied. The extent of capital investment is determined by prosperity requirements for gas and electricity—and not by the amount of consumption during a depression."

"Public utility generating and distributing facilities must naturally be in excess of today's requirements. If the public utility company were not permitted to pay a proper return on its investment, the public utility's ability then to acquire new capital in the future for necessary expansion would disappear. Nobody would buy its securities."

The speaker explained there is an automatic preventive of high rates: "Rates cannot be greater than the value of the service to the purchaser." Utility service meets stern competition from other means of supplying service, this condition likewise forcing the lowest possible rates.

Among special features of electric service, Mr. Sterrett said, are these: "It cannot be stored with economy. "It must be available instantly at all hours of the day to meet any demand."

"It is used and gone. There is no residue. "The purpose of its use is out of control of the company."

"It is not feasible to have its use prepaid, as in most other industries. "It is the product of an enterprise requiring large investments."

Western Bill Arranged At The Grand Theatre

Another screen and stage show that deserves attention is coming to the Grand Theatre tomorrow afternoon and night, a show packed with excitement and thrills.

It is a full Western show, as the feature picture is George O'Brien in "Golden West," one of those higher grade western pictures from the Fox studios. It is a brand new picture and hasn't been run in many of the large cities. George O'Brien, the ever popular actor of Western types, is at his very best. Indians, cowboys, wagon trains, make by far the greatest assembly of persons that has ever taken part in a Western picture. The scenes are beautiful.

Stage attractions include: Hazel Pierson and her cowgirl band, a bunch of real cowgirls from Texas in songs, dancing, rope spinning and music. They will give a free concert in front of the Grand Theatre at 2:15 and again at seven.

There will be the usual popular song reel and news events of the day.

Mrs. T. F. Donnelly is spending some time as guest of her daughter, Mrs. William DeLacy, Boston, Mass.

What A Feeling!

(By "The Stroller")

There were many jubilant Democrats Wednesday morning, but one in Hulmeville was exceedingly joyful. He donned a high silk hat and knee-breeches, hung an American flag on his porch, and proceeded to make calls on some good Republican friends. At one of the staunch Republican homes he entered quite early, while the family was at breakfast—tipped his silk hat, said "Good morning, Dan," and without further word left to pay other visits of a similar nature.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1932

FOURTEENTH ARMISTICE DAY

Today the Nation mourns her soldier dead, honors her soldiers living, and with face resolutely to the future voices rededication to the ideals of peace. In today's observance there is no glorification of war. There is indeed, little of the celebration of victory. There is much sober realization of the cost of it all and a grim determination that it shall not come to another generation through fault or omission of ours.

Yet, do we realize the full burden that we bear? It is not enough that we have the will for peace. It is not enough that we refrain from any act that might invite war. We must do mightily for peace. Else all our hope and desire and longing are in vain. It profits us little if we merely preach valiantly for peace, or shed a tear as the flag goes by. Let us have the fighting courage to face the issues of the day as they come before us, and do our bit toward guiding national destinies in the path of constructive service.

War or peace is determined by the course of governments. And the course of governments is determined in the long run by the expressed opinion of the people. A people eager for peace with honor will not unjustly be plunged into war. What can we the people do for peace? Think well of our neighbors. Give the stranger the benefit of the doubt even though he speak a different language, and call his God by another name. Be patient of misunderstanding. Be proud, but intolerant of swash-buckling conceit. Realize that a big nation must play a big part and play it nobly.

Today is Armistice Day. Let it be a day of plainer comprehension of the old vision, a day of rededication to the old ideals, a day of rebaptism in the old courage. Let it be a day of which we feel, with piety and devotion, not alone the Fatherhood of God, but the brotherhood of man.

CONTRASTS

In embodying in his Thanksgiving proclamation that of the first president in commemoration of his bi-centennial birthday anniversary President Hoover demonstrates by comparison how much his own generation has to be thankful for. George Washington found reasons for national gratitude; there are far greater reasons today.

There is still domestic tranquility despite the provocations to disorder that people less patient and less self-reliant might have found in the circumstances of the last few years. The pressure of sectional and bloc interests have not disrupted our domestic union. Civil liberty prevails in the United States while representative government gives way to dictatorships in other parts of the world.

Though heavy clouds hang over the land and grave national problems seem to defy solution, these anxious days would have seemed carefree to Washington on his first Thanksgiving Day as his country's chief.

Those who have, this year have much to be thankful for and those who have not can be thankful that their neighbors and fellow countrymen have protected them from want. And the nation can give thanks that it is again seeing the light after three dismal years of failure and futility.

COMMUNICATION

The Courier:

When the nations at war reached an understanding they signed an armistice. Misunderstanding has always caused trouble. There is nothing in the world so important as understanding each other. If there ever was a time when a complete understanding of each other was needed—it is now.

We need an understanding of other nations and ourselves. Understanding ourselves constitutes the foundation of friendship and fellowship. Often the best of friendships suffer a shipwreck, because of some small misunderstanding. Wars between nations might have been avoided if the various view points had been recognized. Oftentimes these sacred friendships are dissolved because of the lack of patience on both sides.

We now have a change of politics in our nation. The man elected is a real American. He is not going to ruin us or this great country, willfully. It is our duty, as real Americans to rally to the aid of our fellow citizens irrespective of our political belief. Have patience, let some one else have an opportunity to express and put into action their idea of running affairs. Among the new regime there are men who have investments which they are going to protect as earnestly as you would yours.

Understanding and patience must begin at home in your own heart. How can this best be accomplished? By coming to church. Here we forget our old prejudices by coming into contact with the love of one who understood us well enough to give His own life for us. "Come, let us reason together," said the Master when He was on earth. Today the church force says: "Come make your armistice with your God, have an understanding with the one who knows you better than you know yourself. Get yourself started on the right track then your family will have an example to follow, and there will be unity with God and man, here and abroad with the individual, and the Nation, and all the nations."

RAYMOND H. CLARK,
Pastor, Edgely Union Church.

Daphne by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER LVIII.

DAPHNE glanced miserably out of the glass telephone booth, saw Ralph waiting with exaggerated patience, hands in his pockets . . . she couldn't leave him to telephone again. . . . "Could I leave a message for him?" she began all over again.

"Certainly!" Mrs. Colby bridled, at the other end of the wire.

"Then will you please tell him," Daphne said timidly, "not to send the car back for me, because I'm not going straight home—"

"Tell him what?"

"Not to send the man—"

"I thought you said cart! You'll have to speak more distinctly, Miss Heinz, I don't know what man you want. There isn't any man here. Is someone coming? What's that? I don't hear you—"

In the end she had to give up. "I'll just have to be back at the building to tell the chauffeur not to wait, that's all," she decided, but it wasn't so easy to break the news to Ralph.

He ordered a marvelous dinner. A special salad, steak and mushrooms, all the things she liked. He smiled at her across the table, admiring her, noticing all the little things, things she had always wanted him to notice and he never had before.

"Pretty hat, Daphne."

The old blue hat she had bought to please him last Summer. That had been invisible to him before. Her fingers flew to it instinctively. A little pat. "Do you really like it—it's old now—"

"Yes, blue is your color, isn't it?"

She wished she had a whole blue outfit. But her pleasure was marred by the furtive glances she couldn't help giving to her wrist watch. Five minutes to six. Six o'clock. Five minutes past six.

The waiter brought the steak with a flourish. "Shall I serve, sir?" Ten minutes past six before he was finished, and gone.

"This is something like!" Ralph grinned. "Sauce, Daphne? Remember the first dinner we had together? At the hash-house down by the ferry?"

He stared at her coldly, inimically. Like a stranger.

"You don't think that Mr. Greely . . . that Mr. Greely . . . Oh, Ralph!"

He continued to watch her, a strange gleam in his eye. "Come," he said, "Don't make a scene. Of course, people talk. What do you expect, with Greely's reputation?"

"You feel differently about it, when you've cooled down. He's a lot, but he'd do anything for you—"

"Are you going to quit, or aren't you?"

She saw he meant it then, and her temper, violent as it was rare, rose to meet his. "Quit! Of course I'm not going to quit! You failed Don't pretend you don't know all about the women he's had!"

"At eighty! Oh, Ralph! And even if he is like that, you don't suppose I'm one of them, do you?" The idea was so ridiculous. . . .

Mr. Greely, with his cuss words, and his cane, and his congress boots. . . . Her first hurt indignation melted! Mr. Greely!!! She couldn't be angry. "It's so f-funny!" she giggled, the tears in her eyes.

"Ha, ha!" he laughed with her. "Ha, ha! It is funny to anyone who knows you as I do, Daphne. But it looks bad to others. Darn! That's what I was going to talk to you about tonight. I've got to thinking about it, and I see I made a rotten mistake, taking you to his office that way. I had a little run-in with him this morning. From now on it's likely that there will be no love lost between us. You'll have to quit, Daphne. Right away—that's flat."

She blinked at him, wondering if she heard aright. "Why, I couldn't quit if I wanted to. Not just now, anyway. I'm doing special work—"

Allan's work. . . work that might be worth thousands of dollars to Ralph. . . to Ralph, who had stood the loss for his friend. . .

"Oh, you don't understand Mr. Greely!" she burst out explosively. "He's thinking about your interests all the time—"

"Cut that!" he ordered sharply. "No soft-soaping me. It's a fight to a finish from now on. You can't be friendly with both camps. You'll have to choose—"

Still she refused to take it seriously. "You feel differently about it, when you've cooled down. He's a lot, but he'd do anything for you—"

SPORTS

BASKETBALL LEAGUE OPENS HERE NOV. 21ST

The Bristol Basketball League will open on Monday, November 21. This was decided at a meeting of the circuit held in the Y. M. A. home last night. On the opening night, the Knights of Columbus five will play the Bristol Aces and the Y. M. A. will meet the Third Ward team.

The basketball nights will be on Mondays and Thursdays, unless a holiday falls on those days. All games will be played in the remodeled Italian Mutual Aid Hall, on Wood street. The Mutual Aid Hall is the former Bristol Theatre where some classy basketball was seen years ago.

The teams entered in the circuit are: Knights of Columbus, Bristol Aces, Y. M. A., Hibernians, Third Ward, Odd Fellows, Bristol Hawks and the Paterson Parchment Paper Company.

It was agreed last night to have the teams play intercollegiate rules with the exception of the rule that states a player must leave the game after committing four fouls.

Season tickets are now on sale by the managers of the teams at a great reduction for the full quota of thirty games. Each team will play seven games a half or fourteen during the season.

The teams and their representatives last night were: Bristol Hawks, Harry Jenks and Joe Kerrick; Odd Fellows, F. Rubincam and Franklyn Smith; Aces, Raymond Pico; Paterson Parchment Paper Company, John Parrell and Eugene Spadaccino; Knights of Columbus, Edward McIlvaine; Third Ward, Edward Lavenberg and Nevin McGinley; A. O. H., James Dolan and Vic Potts; and the Y. M. A., John Smoyer and Dayton Pegely.

The next meeting of the league will be held at the Knights of Columbus home next Wednesday night.

CLASSIFIED ADS are a big help to thrifty people.

THREE POINTS TAKEN FROM ELKS BY CO. 1

The No. 1 Fire Co. took three points from the Elks in a League match last night, winning the first two games and total points, and losing the last game by three pins.

Officers Are Named By Mothers' Association

At the monthly meeting of the Mothers' Association in the high school Wednesday evening the following members were elected to fill the chairs for the ensuing two years: President, Mrs. Harry Pope; vice-president, Mrs. George Croner; secretary, Mrs. Alfred McLaughlin; treasurer, Mrs. Sylvester Brady.

On behalf of the association Mrs. John Myers presented to the retiring president, Mrs. Herbert Hanson, an occasional chair; and from her officers a large bouquet of chrysanthemums. Mrs. Myers told of many things accomplished through the efforts of Mrs. Hanson; also the increased number of members. Mrs. Hanson, in accepting her gifts, thanked the officers and the association for their cooperation. She then presented pins to her officers. Mrs. Myers presented to Mrs. Pope a large bouquet of "mums" from her present officers.
